

We are pleased with the high standard of craftsmanship throughout our new home in Carriage Park, and we strongly recommend Matthews Custom Built Homes. Mike Matthews, the owner of the company, is open, engaging, and easy to deal with. Not only does Mike listen to concerns and ideas to incorporate changes, he also shares his professional knowledge by explaining the issues and considerations involved.

The contract, options, and stages of construction are clearly spelled out. If, during construction, there is a question about any given choice, Mike will call for clarification before ordering materials or starting that particular job.

While a good list of preferred vendors is provided, allowing for several price levels, Mike is willing to work with other vendors, if requested. The positive opinions of Mike, expressed by all the vendors we dealt with, indicate that Mike is highly respected in the local community.

This is not the first house we have built but is definitely the best. In addition, the building process was not as stressful as it is wont to be.
